THE 1986-87 SAUGUS HIGH SCHOOL MARCHING BAND

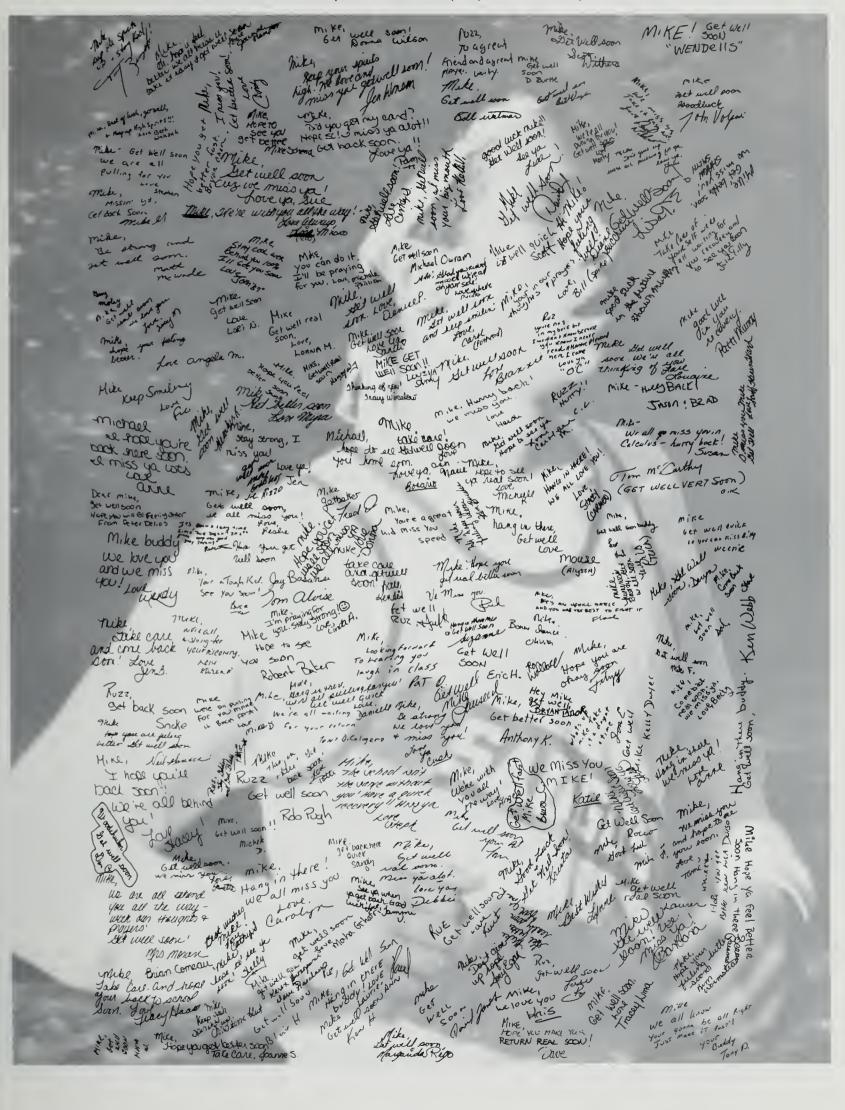

The story of a Sagamore I now will tell you.

A nobler brain a better heart, beat in the breasts of few.

And though he was a savage wild, yet few could him excel, in practice of a Christian life, the art of doing well . . .

He came of noble savage blood in his ancestral line, And few so well their pedigree for ages could define. For warlike deeds of prowess bold had marked a long descent In which the nobliest acts and words of Nature's sons were blent.

He, early in life, received at infancy's release,
The cherished name of "Tontoquon", or, "Messenger of Peace".
Which well became his future life, as by his course was shown.
Through all the region round about, where Tontoquon was known.

His father would have much preferred his only son should wear. The trophies of a dauntless Brave, the Indian hero's share. Than all the laurels peace could give, so worthless in his sight. To glorious victory only won upon the field of fight.

His mother's peaceful spirit saw naught in the field of strife, But bloody fueds and murderous broils, with sacrifice of life. She therefore taught her much loved son to shun heroic pride And bear the olive branch of peace through all the countryside.

No man exceeded Tontoquon in noble manly grace, And goodness of his noble soul was written on his face, And words of wisdom freely flowed, to help the listening throng, Inciting them to upright deeds, restraining them from wrong.

He lived in peace for many years, with changes yearly made, Between Nahantum's seawashed shore, and vale Awamsett's shade, And every year gave further proof that peace was better far Then all the glory and the gain of hostile war. The end of good King Tontoquon rests in obliven shade, Weather he sleeps in the far west, or 'neath the leafy glade Of his dear home mid Saugus hills, no living records tell, So thus I'm forced to leave his fate in fatih that all is well.

TO THE MEMBERS OF THE CLASS OF 1987:

It is a pleasure for me to extend congratulations to your on this occasion of your graduation. In attempting to formulate some kind of message that I might bequest to the Senior Class - my thoughts recalled six years ago when I first met you as seventh oraders. You were young, eager, talented and showed a will to be different.

Much water has gone under the bridge since that time You as members of the Class of 1987, have matured and I believe you have been prepared through your studies at Saugus Migh School to handle the challenges beyond high school.

You have shown all of us at Saugus High School that as a class your approach to life has been honest; your respect for uniqueness has been sincere: and your determination to overcome adversity has been assured.

Life may not always deal you a fair hand, but be willing to look toward tomorrow as a new beginning.

Graduation is an exciting time. Enjoy life and use to the fullest whatever talents and abilities you may possess.

My best wishes to each of you, as you join the alumni of Saugus High School.

Sincerely. Later Red Reco

"YEARBOOKS"

Yearbooks are books of memories One never throws away For all one's friends will write in them By Graduation Day

A special book to look at Yearbooks help us to recall What many people often term "The Best Years Of Them All"

Most of us will wander off And go our seperate ways But with this book we won't forget Our special High School Days

And as we travel onward
To establish our careers
The energy and the spirit
Of our class will persevere

Together we have worked Both as a unit and as a team Yet now we must go off alone To face our many dreams

Though the Future is uncertain Never let your mind erase The "Class of Eighty-Seven" Which no other can replace

Even if the pages yellow
And the ink does someday fade
With this book we'll not forget
The friends that we have made
